ABSTRACT

Dovetail Cultural Resource Group (Dovetail), on behalf of the Virginia Department of Rail and Public Transportation (DRPT), conducted a reconnaissance-level architectural survey of the Greendale to SAY/WAY (GNSA), SAY/WAY to AM Jct (SAAM) and Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye (BBHW) segments of the Washington, D.C. to Richmond Southeast High Speed Rail (DC2RVA) project. The proposed Project is being completed under the auspices of the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) in conjunction with DRPT. Because of FRA's involvement, the undertaking is required to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, as amended. The project is being completed as Virginia Department of Historic Resources (DHR) File Review #2014-0666.

The DC2RVA corridor is divided into 22 segments and this document focuses on the GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments only. This report includes background data that will place each recorded resource within context and the results of fieldwork and National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) evaluations for all architectural resources identified within the GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments. All other segments will be discussed in separate reports. For the purposes of the current report, the architectural area of potential effects (APE) is defined as extending 500 feet on either side of the center of the existing railroad alignment except in urban areas, where the APE is limited to one city block to either side of the existing rail centerline, plus any areas where alterations to a resource's setting and feeling are likely to occur as a result of the Project. This report details the findings of buildings, objects, and districts over 48 years of age within the APE (the age limit was developed to correspond with the anticipated 2017 project completion date). All structures that meet the NRHP 50-year age criterion within the architectural APE of the DC2RVA corridor will be included in a subsequent report spanning the entire 123-mile corridor. The results of the archaeological survey are also discussed in separate reports.

In total, the DC2RVA Project Team surveyed 273 historic architectural resources within the architectural APE in the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments. Of these, 55 previously recorded and 218 newly recorded historic resources were identified. Of the 273 total properties, 15 resources were previously determined potentially eligible/eligible for, or listed in, the NRHP (127-0226, 127-0343, 127-0353, 127-0354, 127-0414, 127-0428, 127-0822, 127-5679, 127-5978, 127-6145, 127-6165, 127-6166, 127-6171, 127-6188, and 127-6730). The DC2RVA Project Team recommends that they should retain their previous eligibility status.

In addition, as a result of the current survey, one newly recorded resource, Integrated Power Sources of VA (043-5636), is recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP under Criterion A for transportation.

One resource, the warehouse at 2728 Hermitage Road (127-6840), was not accessible during the time of survey; therefore, an eligibility recommendation could not be made. It is recommended that the remaining 256 resources are not individually eligible for listing in the NRHP.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

In addition to their individual eligibility recommendation, many resources within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments are located within the boundaries of the four eligible historic districts: The Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), the Carver Residential Historic District (127-0822), and the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730). As a result, it is recommended that four of the five previously recorded properties (127-0343-0516, 127-0343-0517, 127-0343-0518, and 127-0343-0519) are contributing resources to the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), one newly recorded property (127-0354-0007) is a contributing resource to the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), one previously recorded property (127-0428) is a contributing resource to the Carver Residential Historic District (127-0822), and five previously recorded properties (127-6730-0003, 127-6730-0004, 127-6730-0005, 127-6730-0006, and 127-6730-0016) are contributing resources to the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730).

The DC2RVA Team will discuss the Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac Railroad (RF&P) Historic District (500-0001) in a subsequent report (Chase 2016); however, there are two newly recorded resources (Integrated Power Sources of VA (043-5636) and the Acca Transportation Yard (046-5843)), within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA corridor that should be considered contributing elements to the RF&P.

1 INTRODUCTION

Dovetail Cultural Resource Group (Dovetail), on behalf of the Virginia Department of Rail and Public Transportation (DRPT), conducted a reconnaissance-level architectural survey of the Greendale to SAY/WAY (GNSA), SAY/WAY to AM Jct (SAAM) and Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye (BBHW) segments of the Washington, D.C. to Richmond High Speed Rail (DC2RVA) project. In addition to the reconnaissance-level survey, this project includes a background review and historic context development for the FBHA and HAXR segments. The project is being completed as Virginia Department of Historic Resources (DHR) File #2014-0666.

The Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) and DRPT propose passenger rail service and rail infrastructure improvements in the north-south travel corridor between Washington, D.C. and Richmond, VA. These passenger rail service and rail infrastructure improvements are collectively known as the DC2RVA project. The Project will deliver higher speed passenger rail service, increase passenger and freight rail capacity, and improve passenger rail service frequency and reliability in a corridor shared by growing volumes of passenger, commuter, and freight rail traffic, thereby providing a competitive option for travelers going between Washington, D.C. and Richmond and those traveling to and from adjacent connecting corridors. The Project is part of the larger Southeast High Speed Rail (SEHSR) corridor (Figure 1-1), which extends from Washington, D.C. through Richmond, VA, and from Richmond continues east to Hampton Roads (Norfolk), VA and south to Raleigh, NC, and Charlotte, NC, and then continues west to Atlanta and south to Florida. The Project connects to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak) Northeast Corridor (NEC) at Union Station in Washington, D.C.

The purpose of the SEHSR program, as stated in the 2002 Tier I Final Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) completed for the full SEHSR corridor, is to provide a competitive transportation choice to travelers within the Washington, D.C. to Charlotte travel corridor. The purpose of the current Washington, D.C. to Richmond SEHSR project described here is to fulfill the purpose of the SEHSR Tier I EIS within this segment of the larger SEHSR corridor. The Project, by increasing rail capacity and improving travel times between Washington, D.C. and Richmond, will improve passenger train performance and reliability in the corridor, enabling intercity passenger rail to be a competitive transportation choice for travelers between Washington, D.C. and Richmond and beyond.

Given FRA's funding involvement and permitting through various other federal agencies, the DC2RVA project is required to comply with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, as amended, and its implementing regulations under 36CFR800. Additionally, all cultural resource work was designed to comply with the Virginia Antiquities Act (Code of Virginia § 10.1-2300) and guidelines and regulations promulgated by the DHR as necessary.

1.1 PROJECT LOCATION

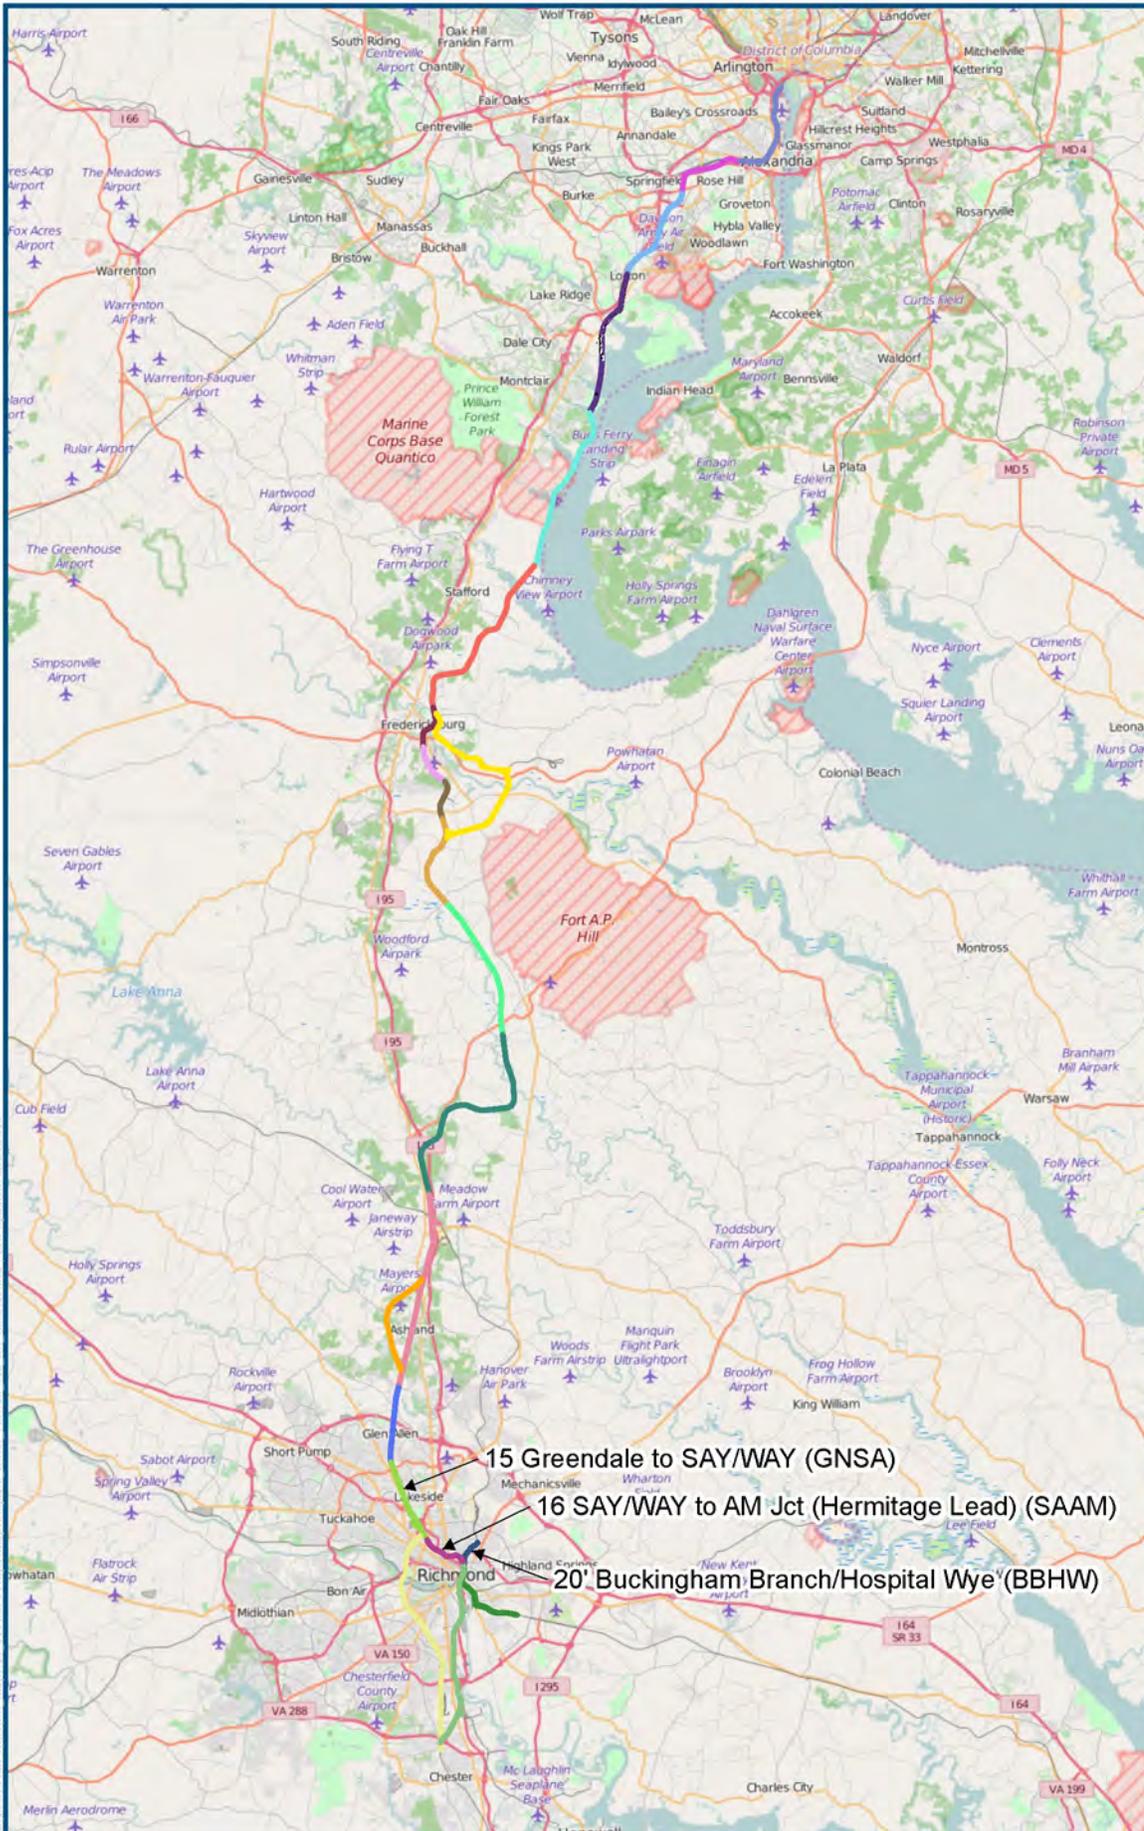

The Washington, D.C. to Richmond corridor spans 123 miles along an existing rail corridor owned by CSX Transportation (CSXT) between Control Point RO (milepost [MP] CFP 110) in Arlington, VA to the CSXT A-Line and S-Line junction at MP A-11 in Centralia, VA (Chesterfield County) (Figure 1-2). For the purposes of engineering and environmental planning, the DC2RVA corridor has been subdivided into 22 segments that correspond with improvements and alternatives, and as such have been named and numbered from north to south (Figure 1-3). At the northern terminus in Arlington, VA, the Project limit ends at the southern approach to Long Bridge, a double-track rail bridge taking the rail corridor over the Potomac River; however, the northern terminus of Union Station in Washington, D.C. will be used for ridership and revenue forecasting, as well as service development planning within the Project corridor. The southern terminus in Centralia is the junction of two CSXT routes that begin in Richmond and rejoin approximately 11 miles south of the city.

Additional segments of the Project include approximately 8.3 miles of the CSXT Peninsula Subdivision CA-Line from Beulah Road (MP CA-76.1) in Henrico County, VA to AM Junction in the City of Richmond, and the approximately 26-mile Buckingham Branch/ Hospital Wye Railroad (BBR) from AM Junction to the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railway (RF&P) Crossing (MP CA-111.8) in Doswell, VA.

Proposed improvements are along CSXT-owned track, generally parallel to the I-95 corridor between northern Virginia and Richmond. From north to south, the project travels through the following counties and cities:

- Arlington County
- City of Alexandria
- Fairfax County
- Prince William County
- Stafford County
- City of Fredericksburg
- Spotsylvania County
- Caroline County
- Hanover County
- Henrico County
- City of Richmond
- Chesterfield County

In Arlington, the Project connects to existing CSXT track extending across the Potomac River on the Long Bridge into Washington, D.C. and Union Station, the southern terminus of Amtrak's Northeast Corridor (NEC). At Centralia, the Project connects to both the Richmond to Raleigh segment of the SEHSR corridor and the Richmond to Hampton Roads segment of the SEHSR corridor.

The Washington, D.C. to Richmond segment is an integral part of the overall Washington, D.C. to Charlotte SEHSR corridor and provides a critical link between high speed intercity passenger service from Boston to Washington, D.C. and the southeastern United States.

1.2 PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The DC2RVA project will include specific rail infrastructure improvements and service upgrades intended to improve the travel time, service frequency, and on-time performance of passenger trains operating between Washington, D.C. and Richmond, VA. Specific improvements to the existing rail infrastructure between Arlington, VA, and Centralia, VA include:

- Corridor-wide upgrades to existing track and signal systems to achieve higher operating speeds, including curve realignments, higher-speed crossovers between tracks, passing sidings, and grade crossing improvements.
- Corridor-wide improvements to train operating capacity to achieve higher passenger train service frequency and reliability, including an additional main track along most of the corridor, and additional controlled sidings, crossovers, yard bypasses and leads, and other capacity and reliability improvements at certain locations.
- Station and platform improvements for Amtrak and Virginia Railway Express (VRE) stations.

The Tier II EIS being completed for the Project will assess the environmental impacts of these improvements and identify ways to avoid, minimize, or otherwise mitigate such impacts.

The Project may include locations for new or replacement intercity passenger stations on the Project corridor, and additional rail capacity and other improvements in the Richmond area, including on the CSXT Peninsula Subdivision from AM Junction in Richmond, VA (just north of Main Street Station) east to Beulah Road in Henrico County, and on the Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye Railroad from Doswell, VA south to AM Junction and on the bypass areas around the town of Ashland, VA and the City of Fredericksburg, VA..

Studies in support of the Project will address passenger and freight rail operations and service between Union Station in Washington, D.C. and Richmond and beyond, but the Project does not include physical improvements to the Long Bridge across the Potomac River or to rail infrastructure within Washington, D.C. Other projects will address improvements to the rail infrastructure north of Arlington and south of Centralia along the SEHSR corridor.

1.3 PREVIOUS CULTURAL RESOURCE STUDIES

The majority of the GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA corridor have been the subject of a previous cultural resource investigation.

Dovetail conducted a Phase I cultural resources survey of the 7-mile long Broad Street Bus Rapid Transits (BRT) project area in the City of Richmond and Henrico County in 2010 and 2015. The project area was separated into nine areas (A through I) with each area representing a segment of the large project APE. The resources included in the survey received an eligibility determination from DHR as part of that study. During a meeting with DHR staff on April 26, 2016, it was decided that the DC2RVA team would not revisit those resource surveyed as part of BRT that are also within the WACA segment. Instead, they were briefly revisited during the field survey and the Team noted any major changes to the resource at that time. Although those resources were not included in the DC2RVA reconnaissance-level fieldwork, they are listed in a table found in the current survey results section (Results Section 5.2, p. 5-2)

1.4 CURRENT STUDY

The current study included a reconnaissance architectural survey of the GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA corridor (see Figure 1-3). The architectural survey was conducted to evaluate both previously recorded properties that have not been evaluated for the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP), as well as any unrecorded resource over 48 years in age (the age limit was developed to correspond to the anticipated 2017 project completion date). Any property in the area of potential effects (APE) that has been previously determined to be eligible, or is listed in, the NRHP was briefly reviewed to assure that the characteristics that rendered the property eligible are still intact. For the purposes of the current report, the architectural APE is defined as extending 500 feet on either side of the centerline of the existing railroad alignment, except in urban areas, where the APE is limited to one city block to either side of the existing rail centerline, plus any areas where alterations to a resource's setting and feeling are likely to occur as a result of the Project. All structures that meet the NRHP age criteria within the architectural APE of the DC2RVA corridor will be included in a subsequent report spanning the entire 123-mile corridor. In addition, the results of the archaeological survey are discussed in separate documents.

Each resource was evaluated with regards to NRHP Criterion A, for its association with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; Criterion B, for its association with people significant in our nation's history; Criterion C, for its embodiment of distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or possess high artistic values. As part of the current survey, these architectural resources were not evaluated under Criterion D for its potential to yield information important in history. Criteria considerations were taken into account only where necessary.

The area within the Project APE was first reviewed through an architectural and historical background literature and records search at DHR. The APE was then visually inspected through a vehicular and pedestrian reconnaissance to identify buildings, objects, and districts over 48 years in age where a NRHP determination had not been made. Once identified, each resource was evaluated for architectural significance and historic and physical integrity. The resources were documented through written notes and digital photographs. The information obtained during the survey was then used to update or generate a new DHR Virginia Cultural Resource Information System (V-CRIS) form and to make recommendations on each resource's NRHP potential.

2 HISTORIC CONTEXT

As part of this undertaking, a historic context of each municipality within the APE was compiled. The GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments are located within one county and one incorporated city: Henrico County and Richmond. Because this report discusses the architectural component of this project, only the historic period for both Henrico County and Richmond are included below. The prehistoric context for these areas will appear in subsequent archaeological reports.

The early histories of both Henrico County and Richmond are similar and intertwined up through to the Civil War; thus, they have been combined into a general regional history, presented first (Section 2.1). This is followed by a more specific history for each (Sections 2.2 and 2.3).

2.1.1 SETTLEMENT TO SOCIETY (1607–1750)

In 1607, Sir Christopher Newport explored the borders of present-day Chesterfield County along the James River five days before the settlement of Jamestown on May 14 (Chesterfield County 1999). In that same year, Newport and John Smith led an exploration party from Jamestown up the James River, to the falls at the location of modern-day Richmond where they placed a cross claiming the land for King James I (Dabney 1990:1). The following year, Newport returned to further explore the south side of the river upstream from the falls. In 1609, Captain Francis West of Jamestown established the first settlement and fort on the falls; however, this settlement was short lived (Dabney 1990). In John Smith's A Map of Virginia, published in 1612, a "King's House" was indicated on the north bank of the James River at Powhatan, just downstream from modern-day Richmond. Another "King's House," as well as several vernacular houses associated with the Appomattoc tribe, was located on the north side of the Appomattox River near its convergence with the James River. The Monacans occupied the area of the James River basin above the falls (Magoon et al. 2003).

In 1612 at Bermuda Hundred, in what would become northeastern Chesterfield County, John Rolfe successfully cultivated his new strain of tobacco. This crop became the cash crop of the colony and sparked the growth and success of future settlements (Chesterfield County 1999). Richmond's location along the James River would play an important role in the profitability of tobacco since it served as a major port for the shipment of the crop through the eighteenth century.

By 1619, the Virginia Company instituted reforms in the colony that led to the establishment of a representative form of government. The colony was divided into settlements or "plantations," one being the City of Henrico. Each plantation sent representatives to Jamestown to the General Assembly of 1619, the first representative legislature in a British colony. That same year, plans were made for the settlement of Henrico plantation, which included a parcel of 10,000 acres for what was intended to become the University of Henricus, the first English university in America. However, an Indian uprising in 1622 caused these plans to be abandoned (Henrico County Historical Society 2006).

During this period, settlement became more dispersed as farmers began moving inland away from major estuaries and tidal creeks looking for new fertile lands. By the 1630s, settlers had returned to the area destroyed by the 1622 Indian massacre and began to rebuild. In 1634, King Charles I of England divided the colonies into eight shires with Henrico being one of them. Henrico's original boundaries were to the north and south of the James River, and eventually numerous counties and independent cities would be formed from these boundaries including Chesterfield County and the Cities of Richmond, Colonial Heights, and Petersburg. In 1641, the Virginia General Assembly granted permission to explore the lands south and west of the Appomattox River, which would become Prince George, and later, Dinwiddie Counties (Jones 1976:23).

By 1643, there were 419 settlers living on both sides of the James River within the boundaries of Henrico County. As a result of the Second Powhatan War in 1645, a short lived fort, Fort Charles, was established on the north side of the James River. Soon after its construction, the fort was dismantled and rebuilt on the south side of the river. In the spring of 1656, several hundred Natives, known as the Rockahecrean, came from the mountains to settle on the north side of the James River at the falls. An unsuccessful attempt was made by colonial militia and allied Indians to remove the Rockahecrean from their new location. The Rockahecrean remained at the falls for a short period before voluntarily returning to the interior. While they were there, they made no attempt to advance on the white settlements in the region (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

By 1661, a successful merchant planter, Thomas Stegg, Jr., had acquired 1,800 acres on the south side of the river and built Falls Plantation. Stegg, along with his nephew William Byrd and Byrd's sons, established a profitable trade venture with Natives in the interior of Carolina and Georgia through the use of a warehouse built at the falls. The Great Trading Path into the interior crossed the James River just west of the falls and ran north-south from this point. Between 1675 and 1676, hostilities erupted between the Susquehannock and the colonists of Maryland and Virginia. Henrico resident Nathaniel Bacon, Jr. became one of the main leaders in a campaign to retaliate against the Natives and against Governor Berkeley's authority. The hostility escalated into one devastating episode, Bacon's Rebellion, when Bacon's forces attacked the Susquehannock and also the friendly Occaneechi on the Roanoke River. In 1676, Bacon died of a fever. Following his death the revolt against the Natives and Governor Berkeley lost momentum and soon ended (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

By the end of the seventeenth century, settlement was still relatively sparse with tobacco dominating the agricultural economy. A minimal amount of rural industries such as brick making and grist milling were beginning to appear in the area (Outlaw and Tyrer 1995). Throughout the 1720s and 1730s, an influx of English planters, along with their slaves, settled in the area and began to clear the uplands and drain the wetlands for tobacco cultivation. Unfortunately for the farmers, tobacco farming practices severely eroded and depleted the piedmont soils within the first five years of cultivation. As a result tobacco production was gradually replaced by cereal crops (Outlaw and Tyrer 1995).

Small courthouse villages and port towns acted as places of communication, culture, and commerce for the dispersed settlements (Outlaw and Tyrer 1995). One of these small port towns was Richmond, founded by William Byrd II in 1733 and laid out by Major William Mayo in 1737 (Dabney 1990:12; Stanard 1923:20). The town, as originally laid out by Mayo, contained modern day Broad Street as the northern boundary, then known as H Street (Stanard 1923:20). The main focus of economic and governmental activity was in Varina located in the southeast corner of the county. By 1741, the governmental and religious center of the county began moving from Varina to Richmond with the completion of St. John's Church in Richmond that year. Richmond was then incorporated as a town the very next year (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

2.1 REGIONAL HISTORY

At the time of European contact in both present-day Richmond and Henrico County the Piedmont was occupied by several Siouan-speaking groups during the late prehistoric and Contact Periods (Mouer 1983). The material culture of the period is characterized by sand- and grit-tempered pottery decorated with simple stamped decorative motifs, often similar to and likely derived from Late Woodland styles (Potter 1993). The introduction of European goods is a distinguishing characteristic of this period. Depopulation related to European born disease and changed trade dynamics are the two primary factors often cited in cultural changes during this period.

2.1.1 Colony to Nation (1750–1789)

By the mid-1700s several distinct communities had developed in the area, and the shifting of power from Varina to Richmond became complete in 1752 when the courthouse was moved to Richmond (Manarin and Dowdey 1984). By the time of the American Revolution, Richmond had become a central place for Virginia politics. Patrick Henry gave his famous "Give me liberty, or give me death" speech at St. John's Church in 1775. Thomas Jefferson and James Madison also wrote the Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom in 1779, which was enacted by the Virginia General Assembly in 1786. Virginia itself was experiencing a shift in power as well when the seat of government was moved from Williamsburg to Richmond in 1780 (Sanford 1975:23). Even though Richmond was a smaller community than Williamsburg, it was believed to be a safer location. Regrettably, on January 5, 1781, Richmond was raided and burned under the direction of Brigadier General Benedict Arnold, forcing Governor Thomas Jefferson to flee the town (Sanford 1975:18). As a result of the raid, warehouses, mills, the foundry, homes, large stores of tobacco, and many government records were destroyed (Dabney 1990). When Arnold's men, now part of British forces led by General William Phillips, approached Richmond for a second time, the British were stopped by the sight of local militiamen and American Continental troops led by a young Frenchman, the Marquis de Lafayette. Outnumbered, Lafayette abandoned Richmond when General Charles Cornwallis occupied the town in June 1781 (Henrico County Historical Society 2006).

Shortly after the British raid on the town, Richmond was incorporated as a city in 1782 and William Foushee was elected as first mayor (Sanford 1975:19). The new city, though it was growing, was still relatively small and relied mainly on the James River as a means of transporting crops for sale and trade. In order to help facilitate this trade the James River and Kanawha Canal was planned by George Washington to connect Richmond with points west and begun in 1785 (Sanford 1975). However, construction was slow and the canal was only half completed by 1851 and work was abandoned by 1877. In 1786, the first theatre in Richmond was built at Twelfth and Broad Street, known as H Street, Broad Road, or Main Street at the time (Sanford 1975:109). Unfortunately, much of the city burned in 1787 as a result of a tavern fire (Sanford 1975:19). Reconstruction was underway quickly though, a process that Richmond would go through again in less than a century, and the Virginia State Capitol building, designed by Thomas Jefferson, was completed in 1788. This building is the second oldest state house in continuous use in the United States.

2.1.2 Early National Period (1789–1830)

Following the Revolutionary War, the Richmond and Henrico County areas experienced a period of steady growth with numerous canals and roadways being built. The early-nineteenth century saw farming, milling, and coal mining as important economic activities in Henrico County with slaves providing most of the labor for these industries (Manarin and Dowdey 1984). Rising tensions between slaves and white owners, as well as a successful slave uprising in Saint Domingue; inspired Henrico County slave, Gabriel, to plan his own revolt. Gabriel was a slave on the Brookfield Plantation owned by Thomas Henry Prosser (Sidbury 1997). Gabriel was trained as a blacksmith, had the ability to read and write, and was permitted to hire himself out for his services throughout the Richmond area. As a result he was able to meet many other slaves from neighboring plantations and also black freedman and sympathetic whites. After a number of insults and injustices, Gabriel decided it was time to act. He planned on seizing Capitol Square in Richmond and taking Governor James Monroe as a hostage. He hoped that all male slaves would join in his revolt along with poor whites and the Catawba. Gabriel recruited an army that had “soldiers” from all over Virginia including Petersburg, Norfolk and Albemarle, Caroline and Louisa Counties, and of course Henrico County.

By August 1800, Gabriel had his “army” assembled. The insurrection was planned for Saturday August 30, but because of large storm it was postponed until the following day. During that time, two slaves cracked under the pressure and told their masters of the planned revolt who then alerted Governor Monroe. The state militia began roaming the countryside looking for any rebels and the leaders of the revolt, including Gabriel who quickly vanished. Gabriel proved elusive for two weeks before he was finally captured. He was tried and quickly sentenced to death. He was executed on October 10, 1800 along with other slaves involved in the revolt. As a result of Gabriel’s Insurrection, also known as Gabriel’s Conspiracy and Gabriel’s Rebellion, harsher laws concerning slaves were passed and slave owners across the country lived in fear of another possible uprising (Africans in America 1998).

Richmond, with the aid of slave labor, continued to grow as a city during this period by expanding trade, manufacturing, and transportation infrastructure (Stanard 1923:69). Due to its role as a port the city relied heavily on water transportation for its welfare. As a result of this, Richmond had a canal systems linking it with areas west by the second decade of the nineteenth century (Scott and Wyatt 1960:86). The city was also on the cutting edge of transportation technology with the opening of the first steamboat line between Richmond and Norfolk in 1815 (Sanford 1975:23). The increase in trade created through these canals and other waterways led to the construction of more warehouses and storage facilities in the city. Trade also helped to stimulate transportation improvements overland, leading to the construction of the Manchester Turnpike, now known as the Midlothian Turnpike, which became the first paved road in Virginia in 1807 (Chesterfield County 1999).

The increase in trade in the early-nineteenth century led to an influx of population and money into the city. This caused more development to spring up in the area catering to the lower working class people filling jobs at the port. Modern-day West Broad Street was one of these areas of development. This section of town was known as Screamersville in the early-nineteenth century and was located just outside of the city boundaries. It served mainly lower and working class residents of the city with shoddy grogshops and boarding houses (Dabney 1990). The influx of money into the city, however, also brought about development that served the upper and merchant classes in Richmond. The first theatre that had been built in Richmond in 1786 burned in 1811, but due to the support of the wealthy residents a new one, called the Marshall Theatre, was built down the street from the old one, at Seventh and Broad Street, in 1818 (Sanford 1975:109). This theater would go on to introduce the world to several famous actors, including Joe Jefferson and the Booth Brothers (Stanard 1923:141).

2.1.3 Antebellum Period (1830–1860)

During this period the rural settlement pattern of dispersed domestic farmsteads continued throughout Henrico County; however, many areas across Virginia were beginning to experience increased industrialization and urbanization at commercial centers like Richmond. In order to support these growing urban areas, new infrastructure using new technologies was needed. These new transportation methods shifted previous patterns of commercial transportation and communication away from the region's major estuaries, making market centers more accessible and further concentrating settlement within the industrialized cities (Foster 1996). In 1834, the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad (RF&P) was formed, connecting Richmond to Washington, D.C. Soon after, in 1851, the Virginia Central Railroad linked Richmond and Charlottesville and the Richmond and York River Railroad connected Richmond with points east in 1853. Richmond and Petersburg were finally linked with the formation of the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad in 1836, which further facilitated trade and commerce leading to an even higher rate of growth right up until the Civil War.

Among the developments taking place in the Richmond area was the formation of the Tredegar Iron Works in Richmond in 1837, the third largest foundry in the United States and an important resource for the Confederacy in the upcoming Civil War. Technological developments in Richmond also persisted right up until the Civil War. In 1847 telegraph lines between Richmond and Washington, D.C. were completed and by 1851 the city gas works was finished (Sanford 1975:23).

2.2 HENRICO COUNTY

In contrast to the steady industrialization that was occurring in Richmond, Henrico County remained predominantly rural with dispersed domestic farmsteads and agricultural lands dominating the landscape throughout the nineteenth and into the mid-twentieth century. After World War II, Henrico County experienced the significant suburban growth that was being mirrored all throughout the United States due to the expanding economy, improved infrastructure, as well as the widespread implementation of zoning laws which facilitated the movement out of cities.

2.2.1 The Civil War (1861–1865)

Early in the War, the capital of the Confederacy was moved from Montgomery, Alabama to Richmond. One of the reasons for the move involved the presence of cheap coal from the Richmond Basin and the strategic location of the Tredegar Iron Works in Richmond (Manarin and Dowdey 1984). As a result of Richmond being the capital of the Confederacy, Henrico County experienced numerous engagements and activities.

2.2.2 Battle of Haws Shop (May 28–30, 1864)

Confederate forces were positioned along the south bank of Totopotomoy Creek on May 28. The left of the Confederate line was made up of General Breckinridge's division and McLaughlin's battalion of artillery. To the right of Breckinridge's men were artillery under the command of General Anderson with men also stationed at Pole Green and the Third Corps waiting in reserve nearby (Official Records 1882:1048).

General Lee of the Confederate Army, needing to know the location of General Grant's Army, ordered a scouting mission to investigate Grant's intentions (Salmon 2001). Grant too was unaware of his opponents' position and he ordered a reconnaissance mission as well. Brigadier General David M. Gregg led this mission and upon his arrival at the intersection of three roads he posted pickets to guard this junction. Haw's Shop was just west of this intersection and Enon Church lay just a mile further west (Salmon 2001). Soon after Gregg's arrival the Confederate Cavalry led by Major General Wade Hampton were seen down the road. Brigades under Brigadier General Wickham and Thomas Rosser charged the New York Cavalry and immediately the 1st Pennsylvania attacked the Confederates. The Union Cavalry fought on foot and repeatedly attacked the Confederate line (Gray and Pape 1993). Initially it seemed that the Confederates were gaining ground but the Union men were reinforced by a large body of infantry. These men were advancing just as Hampton ordered his men to withdraw. Eventually both sides pulled out and tended to their wounded. Neither side could claim a victory for this engagement.

2.2.3 Battle of Totopotomoy Creek (May 28–30, 1864)

To the southwest of Haw's Shop, along the southern bank of Totopotomoy Creek, Lee's infantry was positioned on May 28th hoping to block an advance from Grant's army. Lee felt that Grant was planning to attack toward the Confederate capital and if he was his men would have to navigate through the low, swampy ground, climb the bluffs, and make it pass some well-prepared earthworks (Salmon 2001). The Union Army was positioned on the north side of Totopotomoy Creek and ready to attack were Major General Winfield S. Hancock's II Corps, Major General Ambrose EL Burnside's IX Corps, and Major General Gouverneur K. Warren's V Corps (Salmon 2001).

For two days the Union army made advances to the Confederate line, with little success. At one point Burnside's men managed to cross the Totopotomoy and elsewhere Hancock's corps gained control of a set of earthworks occupied by Early's pickets. Hancock's men immediately began digging to turn the trenches to face the Confederate line (Salmon 2001). However, eventually the Federals were pushed back to Shady Grove and Grant became aware that an attack along the Totopotomoy would be a great disadvantage and it would be wise to slip around Lee's right flank. No side could claim a victory in this battle.

2.2.4 Reconstruction and Growth (1865–1917)

Following the end of the Civil War, Henrico County was quickly occupied by Federal troops whose job was to restore order and end the lawlessness that resulted from the Confederates leaving their former capital. Much of downtown Richmond had been destroyed by fires. Some businesses in the area were able to recover quickly during reconstruction; the Tredegar Iron Works was back in production by August 1865. The five major railroads that linked Richmond to the rest of the state and country were also repaired soon after the end of the war (Dabney 1990).

The people of Henrico County had many challenges to face. Many of the area's young men were dead or maimed as a result of the war, and the entire slave population now found itself free and struggling to find homes and work. The economy of the area was also greatly affected as slave labor was no longer an option. By the beginning of the twentieth century, Henrico County was still dominated by agriculture with the main crops being corn, oats, wheat, and tobacco and also nurseries, vineyards, and fruit orchards. The largest growth in agriculture was in dairy farming which included more than half of the county's agricultural sales. However, coal mining and industry were becoming economically viable in the area. Sadly, the coal mining boom ended shortly after a major gas explosion at the Carbon Hill mine, formerly known as Gaytown Mine, in 1912. After the explosion, only small pit mines were utilized for local consumption (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

2.2.5 World War I to World War II (1917–1945)

During World War I, a powder-bag plant was constructed in the Seven Pines area of Henrico County which included the plant building, ancillary structures, 50 miles of rail line, rows of warehouses, infrastructures, and a worker's housing neighborhood. Furthermore, several industries in Richmond and some of the small rail systems were devoted to the war effort. After the war, these industries were able to successfully convert to peacetime production (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh visited Richmond in the Spirit of St. Louis after completing his historic trip. He was there for the dedication of the new municipal airport, the Richard Evelyn Byrd Field, which became Richmond International Airport and served as a military base during World War II (Dabney 1990). During the 1920s, Richmond was also a popular place for some of the country's most famous aerobatic performances (Foster 1996).

During World War II farm production for the war effort was organized by the Henrico County Board of Agriculture who encouraged farmers to increase production. The peacetime transition was not as smooth as World War I, with many veterans returning to job shortages in the local economy (Manarin and Dowdey 1984).

2.2.6 The New Dominion to Present

Between 1945 and 1950, the population of Henrico County nearly doubled to 60,000 people. As a result of this growth, much of the county's farmlands were turned into subdivisions and apartment complexes. The county also saw an increase and improvements in support facilities and road construction (Manarin and Dowdey 1984). Today, Richmond is a bustling city and a major business and cultural center. As Richmond grows so does Henrico County, as people move to the suburbs as well to take advantage of Richmond's resources.

2.3 CITY OF RICHMOND

Richmond experienced rapid urbanization and industrial growth throughout the nineteenth century up until the Civil War when the city was set on fire by retreating Confederates, leaving the city devastated. By the end of the nineteenth century growth had begun anew and manufacturing became the main focus. This focus on manufacturing led to a population growth and several annexations which helped to create the large capital city Richmond is today.

2.3.1 The Civil War (1861–1865)

Early in the war, the Confederate States government relocated its capital from Montgomery, Alabama to Richmond, Virginia. One of the reasons for the move was basic logistics. Another factor was resources like the Richmond Basin's cheap coal and the proximity of the Tredegar Iron Works (Manarin and Dowdey 1984). As the capitol of the Confederacy, Richmond gained military importance and the contending armies marched and fought through the surrounding area as a consequence.

During the war, Richmond and the surrounding area served as an important center for manufacturing, especially with regard to Tredegar Iron Works. The rail lines in the area also acted as important lines of communication, supply, and eventually escape when the Union army finally broke through at Petersburg and captured Richmond. With the breakthrough, the Confederate government evacuated Richmond and ordered the burning of warehouses and supplies, which caused a great degree of damage to buildings in the business district (National Park Service [NPS] 2009).

Ironically, no battles were fought within the city limits during the war. However, two major Union campaigns were conducted in the Richmond area during the war with the sole purpose of capturing the capital city. The first of these was the Peninsula Campaign, launched in the spring of 1862 under the command of General George McClellan (NPS 2009). Although most of the fighting occurred east of Richmond, an engagement did occur at Drewry's Bluff on May 24 resulting in the repulsion of a Union invasion force from the James River between Richmond and Petersburg in Chesterfield County (NPS nd).

The second major campaign that affected the area was Grant's Overland Campaign, which lasted through the summer and fall of 1864. During this campaign the rail lines in and around Richmond and Petersburg were prime targets along with the Confederate Capitol (NPS nd). After a number of battles, Grant's army crossed the James River and laid siege to Petersburg in the fall of 1864. A series of engagements were fought in and around the city until its surrender on April 3, 1865, the same day as the surrender of Richmond and six days before Lee's surrender at Appomattox. During the evacuation of Richmond on April 2, 1865 the fleeing Confederates set fire to the city, destroying about one-quarter of the buildings.

2.3.2 Reconstruction and Growth (1865–1917)

Like much of Virginia and the south, the area around Richmond was devastated by the Civil War. Not only were homes and crops destroyed, but an entire generation of young men was wiped out in certain areas. This led to slow growth right after the cessation of hostilities. The urban center of Richmond recovered more quickly than the surrounding countryside due to its industrial nature. Iron played a large role in the reconstruction of Richmond led by the Tredegar Company, Talbott and Brother, Metropolitan Iron Works, Palmer and Turpin, and various other iron workers (Sanford 1975:16). Flour mills, common before the Civil War also aided in the recovery of the city indicated by the fact that Gallego Mill, destroyed in the evacuation, was one of the first buildings to be rebuilt (Sanford 1975:19).

After the war Richmond became less important as an inland port since Norfolk took over this role, but railroads continued to move to the city. In addition to the previously existing lines like the RF&P; the Chesapeake and Ohio; Southern; Atlantic Coast Line; and Seaboard Air Line railroads moved in between 1870 and 1899 (Sanford 1975:13–14). Another mode of transportation, the electric trolley, arrived in Richmond in 1888, and proved to be the country's first successful electric trolley system, soon replacing horse carts (Sanford 1975:52). The next step in transportation, the automobile, came to Richmond soon after this and by 1912 the Kline Motor Car Corporation had moved to Richmond (Sanford 1975:107).

Manufacturing in the city also began to grow with the arrival of the first cigarette manufacturer in Richmond, P.H. Mayos and Brothers Tobacco Company, founded in 1874. Prior to this, Richmond had shipped tobacco leaves to other places for processing. This is particularly important to Richmond because the cigarette industry would continue to boom throughout the twentieth century leading to ten percent of the nation's cigarettes being produced in the city by 1920.

This increase in manufacturing and work allowed people to have surplus money, which then led to the establishment of places to spend it. Some of the first people to come to Richmond from the north after the Civil War were Union Army sutlers who set up on Broad Street and turned it into a temporary retail center (Chesson 1981:61). After the sutlers left, several clothing and dry goods stores moved to Broad Street and began to prosper, in the years from 1865–1870 (Chesson 1981:68). By the 1880's department stores began to open on Broad Street, including Miller and Rhoads in 1885 at 117 East Broad Street (Sanford 1975). During this time the southern side of Broad Street contained most of the better stores while the northern side was composed mostly of saloons (Dabney 1990:286). Broad Street would continue to be Richmond's main shopping area through the first half of the twentieth century (Dabney 1990:285).

The increase in industry and booming economy of Richmond led to population increase during this period. As a result, the town of Manchester, a settlement on the southern bank of the James River opposite Richmond established about the same time, was annexed. This acquisition of land by Richmond not only increased the size of the city, but allowed for a free bridge between the two areas, where a toll had been in place previously. Shortly after, the city annexed 12.21 square miles in 1914, almost doubling its size (Sanford 1975:109).

2.3.3 World War I to World War II (1917–1945)

Prior to the Great Depression, Richmond was a growing and modern early-twentieth century city. Business continued to boom with manufacturing plants for DuPont, the Williams Bridge Company, the Gulf Oil Company, and Philip Morris. It was these very companies that would bring the area through the worst of the Depression in the 1930s. Richmond continued to expand prior to the stock market crash of 1929 by annexing more land and constructing several buildings, including one of the largest in the city, the 14-story State and City Bank and Trust Company Building, in 1922 (Sanford 1975).

This modernization did not stop at buildings, but continued with a wave of technology coming to Richmond before 1930. In 1926 the previously existing Jefferson Davis Memorial Highway would become part of Route 1, the main road up and down the east coast, further cementing Richmond as a transportation hub (Weingroff 2005). In 1930 Richmond built its first skyscraper, the 22-story Central Fidelity Bank at 219 East Broad Street (McGraw 1994:247). The late 1920's also saw the introduction of the first radio station in Richmond as well as the advent of "talkie" films in the City at Capitol Theater (now demolished) on East Broad Street (Sanford 1975:114, 136). Finally, continuing the role of transportation innovation in Richmond, Byrd Airfield was opened in 1927, which would serve as a stop for Charles Lindbergh on his 1927 Guggenheim tour of the United States (Sanford 1975:142).

The industrial character of Richmond in this period caused it to play a large role in both World Wars. The large plants in the area were enlisted and retooled during these times of crisis to manufacture goods for the war effort. Boilers for warships, clothing, parachutes, and cigarettes for rations were produced in the greater Richmond area and went to millions of American soldiers overseas. This production not only kept the war effort going in Europe and the Pacific, it also kept the economy afloat for the people in the area by giving them jobs and a means to provide for their families during uncertain economic times.

2.3.4 The New Dominion (1945–Present)

With the end of World War II, the Richmond area continued to grow as a result of numerous jobs and its location along major transportation corridors. In 1950 an air terminal had opened up at Byrd Airfield allowing it to be a hub of commercial air transportation (Sanford 1975:142). By 1958 the Interstate Highway System was in place, and two major limited-access highways, Interstate 95 and Interstate 64, passed right through Richmond. In 1970 Richmond successfully annexed 27 square miles of Chesterfield County after years of court battles, increasing its size and population by more than 47,000 people (Chesterfield County 1999). The growth of the area, however, did not mean that the cities were steadily growing in population. During this period the population of Richmond began to decline as many people, particularly middle class white people, began to move into the surrounding suburbs and commute to work in the cities (Richmond Comprehensive Plan 2000:9). This "white flight" dramatically changed the demographic of the city to that of an African-American majority. However, within Richmond there was still a building boom. Virginia Commonwealth University was formed in 1960 out of the Richmond Professional Institute, the Richmond Coliseum was built in 1968, and a new City Hall was built in 1971 (Richmond Comprehensive Plan 2000:9).

The area continued to be a draw for businesses, led by the ever-growing Philip Morris, which has the world's largest cigarette factory in south Richmond and was producing one-third of all the cigarettes made in the United States as early as 1947 (Richmond Times-Dispatch 2000). In the period from 1946 to the 1970s the total number of employees at Philip Morris in Richmond went from 994 to over 8,000, indicating the rapid growth of business in the greater Richmond area during the late twentieth century. While many of its operations are now in the nearby suburbs, Philip Morris has recently built a new research and development facility in downtown.

The demographic shifts in the mid-twentieth century have persisted and resulted in greater residential and commercial development in Henrico, Chesterfield, and Hanover Counties. West Broad Street in Henrico County is arguably the primary commercial corridor in western Henrico County. Despite this outward expansion trend, in recent years there has been a renewed interest in living, working, and shopping in the downtown area of Richmond (Richmond Comprehensive Plan 2000). This is manifested in many cases in both public and private preservation and adaptive reuse of buildings. This new phenomenon, while preserving much of the historic fabric of the city, has also served to drive real estate prices up causing many, mainly African American lower-class residents to move out of the areas they have historically inhabited. In the first decade of the twenty-first century the Richmond continues to grow and serve as a center for business, politics, transportation, and population in Virginia as it has for almost 300 years.

METHODOLOGY

The architectural survey was conducted to evaluate any historic buildings, objects, or districts over 48 years in age for NRHP eligibility. Each resource was evaluated in regards to Criterion A, for its association with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; Criterion B, for its association with people significant in our nation's history; and Criterion C, for its embodiment of distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or possess high artistic values. As part of the current survey, these architectural resources were not evaluated under Criterion D, for its potential to yield information important in history. Criteria considerations were taken into account only where necessary.

A background literature and records review of the APE at the DHR was conducted prior to any fieldwork. This included an inspection of previous cultural resource surveys within the architectural APE and the notation of previously recorded architectural properties both within the APE and within a 0.5-mile radius of the APE to establish an area resource context.

Once the background review was complete, field recordation commenced. For previously recorded resources that were previously determined eligible for or listed in the NRHP within the architectural APE, the DC2RVA team briefly examined these properties to assure that they retain the characteristics that rendered them eligible for the NRHP, but in-depth studies were not completed on these resources.

During the architectural survey of both newly recorded and previously identified resources, the project's architectural APE was surveyed through a combination of a vehicular and pedestrian reconnaissance. Above-ground properties meeting the age criteria of the NRHP were documented through photographs, written notes, and mapping. This includes buildings, objects, and districts that are within the project boundaries and in the viewshed of the project area. Digital photos were taken of each property documenting the primary elevation, oblique angles, and general setting.

After the architectural field project was completed, the project team prepared separate V-CRIS forms and accompanying documentation for each recorded property in accordance with DHR policies and practices. Each V-CRIS packet included a V-CRIS form, site plan, set of hard-copy black & white photographs, and a CD of digital photos for each property. The hard copy and electronic versions of the photographs were labeled and prepared according to DHR standards.

4 BACKGROUND REVIEW

Prior to conducting fieldwork, Dovetail conducted a background review of the DC2RVA project area to identify previously recorded above-ground resources within a 0.5-mile radius around the APE. This task included an evaluation of DHR files, maps, and reports and Civil War Sites Advisory Commission (CWSAC) maps to obtain the required information. The goal was to provide data on previously recorded resources to aid in the evaluation of properties identified during the current survey.

4.1 PREVIOUS SURVEYS

At least nine previous cultural resource surveys have been conducted within the current project's architectural APE in the GNSA, SAAM and BBHW segments.

In August 1989, Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) in conjunction with the Virginia Commonwealth University Archaeological Research Center conducted a reconnaissance-level cultural resource study for the proposed replacement of the Stonewall Jackson Bridge in Richmond. The only resource that was located in the project APE was the Stonewall Jackson Bridge (127-0360) itself, which is not considered eligible for the NRHP. Though it was found to be not likely that any significant archaeological resources would be disturbed by the proposed construction, it was recommended that disturbances of ground east of the southern bridge approach should be avoided (Mouer 1989).

On behalf of VDOT, The William and Mary Archaeological Project Center conducted a cultural resource survey in March 1990 for the proposed replacement of the First Street Bridge in Richmond. The purpose of this survey was to provide information regarding the identification and distribution of potential architectural and archaeological resource within the right-of-way of the project. There were two alternatives under consideration: either to replace the existing bridge at First Street (Alternative A) or to construct a new bridge along St. James Street (Alternative B). There were also two alternatives for the new road construction which would begin at Baker Street and end at Federal Street (Alternatives C1 and C2). No archaeological sites were identified within Alternatives A, B, or C1, so no further work was recommended (Blanton et al. 1990).

In October 1992, Browning & Associates, LTD conducted a Phase I intensive cultural resources survey for a proposed 15 mile transmission line through Hanover and Henrico counties for Virginia Power. The survey's intention was to identify any architectural or archaeological resources within the project area. The survey resulted in the documentation of 11 newly surveyed archeological sites and four above-ground architectural resources. Two prehistoric archaeological sites were recommended for further research to determine eligibility for the NRHP (Browning and Taylor 1992).

BACKGROUND REVIEW

Garrow & Associates, Inc., conducted an archaeological Phase I survey for a proposed railroad spur from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway at Roxbury Virginia to the Charles City County Landfill for Chambers Development of Virginia in December 1994. A total of 92 shovel tests along the 2.5-mile long proposed right-of-way were excavated, which resulted in the identification of three sites and two isolated finds. Two of the newly identified sites, 44CC365 and 44CC366, were recommended for further study to determine eligibility for the NRHP (Gunn 1995).

In February and March 2005, Cultural Resources, Inc. conducted a reconnaissance-level cultural resource survey of the proposed 197-acre Rutland development area for HHHunt Communities, Inc. A total of 1,500 shovel tests was excavated, which resulted in the identification of 11 previously unidentified archaeological sites and 21 isolated finds. Three architectural resources were also identified within the project area, one of which was previously recorded with the DHR. Of the resources identified during the survey, three archaeological sites (44HN0356, 44HN0357, and 44HN0360) were recommended for a Phase II evaluation and one above-ground architectural resource (042-0203), was recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP (Brady et al. 2005).

On behalf of the City of Richmond, and the City of Richmond's consultant, Whiteman, Requardt & Associates, Coastal Caroline Research, Inc. (CCR) conducted a cultural resource survey for the proposed modification to the intersection of East Duval Street and North Seventh Street in Richmond, Virginia in February 2007. One architectural resource was identified that was determined not eligible since it was found to be non-historic and did not meet the Criteria Consideration G for listing in the NRHP. One previously recorded archaeological site was identified through the use of DHR's Data Sharing System (DSS), but after a further literature review, it was determined that the site location was mapped incorrectly and the site would not be impacted by the proposed project (Hall and Lautzenheiser 2007).

In November 2007, Cultural Resources, Inc. conducted a Phase I cultural resource identification survey on behalf of Greenley and Hansen for the proposed Battery Park Emergency Overflow Relief Pipeline project in Richmond. The purpose of this survey was to identify new archaeological and architectural resources located within the 1,500 feet of pipeline right-of-way. Of the 1,500 feet of pipeline right-of-way, only 140 feet was able to be shovel tested due to the pipeline's proposed location underneath existing pavement. Also due to the underground location of the proposed pipeline, it was determined that there would not be any effects on the viewshed of potential architectural resources. No new or previously recorded architectural resource, archaeological sites or isolated archaeological finds were identified during this survey (Ferland and Magoon 2007).

In 2010 Dovetail conducted a Phase I cultural resource survey of the Broad Street BRT project in Richmond on behalf of Parsons, the DRPT, and the Richmond GRTC Transit System (GRTC). This survey was broken up into five volumes and was intended to identify any architectural or archaeological resources within the APE to determine eligibility for the NRHP. After a visual inspection to identify areas with the potential for intact deposits for archaeological findings, it was determined that a majority of the corridor has already been disturbed through development, but a further survey was recommended if subsurface impacts deeper than 1 foot are planned. A total of 545 architectural resources was identified within the APE, 433 previously recorded and 114 newly recorded, 66 of which were recommended potentially eligible, already eligible, or were already listed in the NRHP (Peckler et al. 2010a-e).

Circa~Cultural Resource Management, LLC (Circa~) conducted a Phase I cultural resource survey on behalf of The Timmons Group (Timmons) in December 2011. The purpose of this survey was to identify and record all historic resources within the Atlee Road extended project area in Hanover County before improvements are made to the intersection. The survey identified 15 architectural resources, eight of which were newly recorded as well as one new archaeological site and three isolated finds. None of the resources were found to be eligible for listing in the NRHP (Frost and Tyrer 2011).

4.2 PREVIOUSLY RECORDED CULTURAL RESOURCES

A total of 2,349 architectural properties has been previously recorded within 0.5 miles of the DC2RVA corridor in the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments (See table in Appendix A). Of those, eight resources (0.3 percent) have been listed as a National Historic Landmark (NHL) (Richmond City Hall, 127-0003; Governor's Mansion, 127-0057; John Marshall House 127-0073; Egyptian Building, 127-0087; White House of the Confederacy, 127-0115; Monument Avenue Historic District, 127-0174; Jackson Ward Historic District, 127-0237; Maggie L. Walker National Historic Site, 127-0275). Richmond City Hall (127-0003), listed in the NRHP in 1969 and as an NHL in 1971, is a city government building that is a prime example of High Victorian Gothic style and was built between 1886 and 1894 (Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission Staff 1969a). Listed in the NRHP in 1969 and as an NHL in 1988, the Governor's Mansion (127-0057) has served as the official residence of Virginia governors since its construction in 1811 (Salmon and Vosmik 1988). The John Marshall House (127-0073) was listed as an NHL in 1960 and was the home of Chief Justice John Marshall from its construction in 1790 until Marshall's death in 1835 (Melvin 1972). The Egyptian Building (127-0087) was listed in the NRHP in 1969 and as a NHL in 1971 for being an excellent example of the Egyptian Revival style as well as its role in medical education (Alexander 1969). The White House of the Confederacy (127-0115), listed as an NHL in 1960, served as the executive mansion for the Confederacy from 1861-1865 (Lissandrello 1975). Listed in the NRHP in 1970 and as an NHL in 1997, the Monument Avenue Historic District (127-0174) is significant for being one of the few grand residential boulevards in America to survive virtually unaltered and is unified in design, workmanship and materials (Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission Staff 1969b). The Jackson Ward Historic District (127-0237) was listed in 1978 as an NHL for its importance to African American history in Richmond as well as for its collection of significant late-nineteenth century commercial and residential buildings (Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission Staff 1976). The Maggie L. Walker National Historic Site (127-0275) was listed in the NRHP and as a NHL in 1975 and was the home of Maggie Walker, who was a prominent businesswoman and philanthropist within the African American community in Richmond in the early-twentieth century (Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission Staff 1975).

Sixty-eight additional resources (3.0 percent) are listed in the NRHP as well as the Virginia Landmarks Register (VLR) including 21 historic districts (Laurel Industrial School Historic District, 043-0292; Fan Area Historic District, 127-0248; Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District, 127-0343; Shockoe Valley & Tobacco Row Historic District, 127-0344; Commonwealth Club Historic District, 127-0373; Broad Street Commercial Historic District, 127-0375; Monroe Park Historic District, 127-0383; Boulevard Historic District, 127-0398; West of Boulevard Historic District, 127-0742; Fairmount Historic District, 127-0814; Union Hill Historic District, 127-0815; Town of Barton Heights Historic District, 127-0816; Carver Residential Historic District, 127-0822; Grace Street Commercial Historic District, 127-0857; West Broad Street Commercial

The remaining 34 NRHP-listed include a wide variety of resource types including, but not limited to, statues, universities, offices, museums, schools, and industrial and commercial buildings (Sheltering Arms Hospital, 127-0017; Department of Historic Resources, 127-0079; Belgian Building, 127-0173; Personnel Office, 127-0177; The National, 127-0178; Ninth Street State Office Building, 127-0180; Robert E. Lee Monument, 127-0181; Virginia State Library, 127-0188; George Washington Equestrian Statue, 127-0189; The Science Museum of Virginia, (127-0226); V.C.U. School of Music, 127-0228-0029; Richmond Academy of Medicine, 127-0250; Blues Armory, 127-0278; Masonic Temple, 127-0296; Saint Luke Building, 127-0352; Richmond Nursing Home, 127-0353; Virginia Union University, 127-0354; Steamer Company Number 5, 127-0370; Charlotte Williams Memorial Hospital, 127-0395; United Daughters of the Confederacy Museum, 127-0398-0054; Maggie L. Walker High School, 127-0414; Thomas Jefferson High School, 127-0431; Moore's Auto Body and Paint Shop, 127-0834; Virginia Department of Highways Building, 127-0844; Associated Electrical Service, 127-5459; Joseph Bryan Park, 127-5677, Coliseum Lofts, 127-5811; Todd's Ham Building, 127-5978; Southern Stove Works, 127-6145; BCWH Architects, 127-6163; Cookie Factory Lofts, 127-6165; Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Barn, 127-6171; Department of Public Utilities Overbrook Road Facility, 127-6184; Richmond Locomotive & Machine Works, 127-6188).

Fourteen (0.5 percent) of those 68 NRHP-listed resources are located within the DC2RVA project area. Of those, four are historic districts: 127-0343, 127-0354, 127-0822, and 127-6730, three are civic buildings: 127-0226, 127-0353, and 127-0414, two are cemeteries: 127-5679 and 127-6166 and one is a rail-related building: 127-6171. The remaining four resources are large, adaptably reused, industrial buildings: 127-5978, 127-6145, 127-6165, and 127-6188. For additional information on these 14 resources, see the Survey Results section (Table 5-2, Figures 5-1 through 5-7).

One (<0.1 percent) of the resources located within 0.5 miles of the project corridor has been removed from the NRHP as well as the VLR (Maupin-Maury House, 127-0074). The Maupin-Maury House is a Greek Revival rowhouse that was built in 1846 by a founder of Hampton Sydney College and had its NRHP status removed in 1994 when the house was dismantled and moved elsewhere (DHR 2016).

Nineteen of the 2,349 resources (0.7 percent) that are located within 0.5 miles of the project corridor were previously determined by DHR staff as eligible or potentially eligible for listing in the NRHP. One of these resources, the George W Carver Elementary School (127-0428), is located within the DC2RVA project area. The remaining 18 resources include four historic districts (127-0252, 127-0521, 127-0817, and 127-6072), 11 residences and commercial resources (127-0106, 127-0396, 127-0416, 127-0744, 127-6136-0004, 127-6136-0021, 127-6136-0038, 127-6528, 127-6540, 127-6569, and 127-6721), one school (127-0441), and two structures (127-0360 and 127-0823).

Two hundred-six resources (8.5 percent) located within 0.5 miles of the project corridor were determined by DHR staff to be not eligible for the NRHP. A wide variety of buildings and structures, including bridges, historic markers, industrial buildings, monuments, single- and multi-family dwellings, parking lots, offices, and commercial buildings make up those 216 not eligible resources.

The remaining resources (n=2,047 or 87.0 percent) documented within 0.5 miles of the project corridor do not have NRHP eligibility determinations. These 2,047 buildings, structures, and objects represent a wide variety of architectural styles and influences common in urban settings throughout the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries. Many of these resources are located within one of the previously discussed historic districts (Mainly in the Monument Avenue, Jackson Ward, Fan Area, Chestnut Hill/Plateau, Museum District, Town of Barton Heights, and Scott's Addition historic districts).

5 RESULTS

The architectural investigation of the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA project involved a field survey of all above-ground resources over 48 years in age within the Project’s architectural APE. Both previously recorded properties and newly recorded resources were included as part of the current evaluation to achieve cultural resource compliance. The current survey identified 55 previously recorded resources and 218 newly recorded resources, for a total of 273 surveyed resources.

5.1 RESOURCES WITHIN THE PREVIOUS BROAD STREET BUS RAPID TRANSIT SYSTEM SURVEY

Within the architectural APE, there are 30 resources that were recently surveyed by Dovetail and received an eligibility determination as part of an earlier cultural resource survey of the Broad Street BRT Project (Peckler et al. 2010a–e). Based on consultation with DHR in March 2016, although these resources received an eligibility determination more than five years ago, they were not formally revisited during the current investigation; however, a table of the resource is below and a cursory inspection was completed to assure that the characteristics used to render an eligibility determination during the Broad Street BRT Project remain intact (Table 5-1).

5.2 Previously Recorded Resources

This survey identified 55 previously recorded buildings, objects, and districts within the architectural APE. Any previously recorded structures within the architectural APE will be included in a subsequent report (Table 5-2, Figures 5-1 through 5-17).

Of those 55 previously recorded resources included in the current survey, 15 have been previously listed in or determined potentially eligible/eligible for the NRHP. Fourteen of the previously recorded resources were determined not eligible for the NRHP more than five years ago; as such they were re-evaluated during the current survey. The remaining 26 previously recorded resources had not been formally evaluated for the NRHP. Table 5-2 lists these 55 resources, along with Dovetail’s eligibility determination.

5.2.1 Previously Recommended Potentially Eligible/Eligible for, or Listed in, the NRHP

Fifteen of the 55 previously recorded resources included in this survey have received a formal NRHP eligibility evaluation from DHR staff. A brief description of each is listed below.

The Science Museum of Virginia, previously known as the Broad Street Station (127-0226), is a three-story, 11-bay, monumental Neoclassical style train station built in 1919 that now houses the Science Museum of Virginia (Figure 5-18). This resource was designed by architect John Russell Pope and is constructed of dressed ashlar with a large, central, copper dome. The building housed the central offices for the RF&P Railroad until train service ceased there in 1969. The resource was listed in the NRHP in 1971 under Criteria A for transportation and C for architecture (Cheek 1971). The integrity of the resource remains intact and its current condition does not warrant a change to its NRHP-listed status. It is recommended that the Science Museum of Virginia remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343) is one of Richmond's early streetcar suburbs that features 659 contributing resources composed mainly of single-family, frame dwellings constructed in the Queen Anne, Craftsman, Colonial Revival and Gothic Revival styles (Figure 5-19). The neighborhood was platted in 1889 and experienced its greatest period of growth in the first quarter of the twentieth century. This district reflects the trend of middle-class suburban growth due to the expansion of transportation options outside of Richmond's urban core (Worsham 2001). This historic district was listed in the NRHP in 2001 under Criteria A for commerce and transportation and C for architecture. The district and its contributing resources appear to retain their historic significance and integrity. Therefore, it is recommended that the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District remain eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Richmond Nursing Home, previously known as the Almshouse (127-0353), is a three-story, multi-bay, institutional building constructed between 1860–1861 in the Italianate style (Figure 5-20). The resource was designed by City Engineer Washington Gill, Jr. and sits on a raised foundation and is composed of coursed brick. It features three symmetrically placed, three-story, three-bay, pavilions connected by two-story, six-bay hyphens. The resource was built by the City of Richmond as an almshouse for the poor and represents the social reform movements that were prevalent throughout Antebellum America (McGehee 1981). The resource was listed in the NRHP in 1981 under Criterion A for social/humanitarian history as well as medicine and Criterion C for architecture. In spite of multiple additions and general landscape changes to the property, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its NRHP-listed status. As a result, it is recommended that the Richmond Nursing Home remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

RESULTS

The Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354) consist of 11 acres of the Virginia Union University campus that contain the original collegiate buildings built between 1899-1901 in a simplified Richardsonian Romanesque style (Figure 5-21 and 22). The campus was designed by architect John H. Coxhead, and the buildings are all constructed of rough-faced gray granite ashlar. The university was established as the Richmond Theological School for Freedman in 1865 by the Baptist Home Mission Society to educate newly emancipated freedman following the Civil War. After merging with Wayland Seminary and changing the name to Virginia Union University the school moved to its current location in 1896. The Virginia Union University Historic District was listed in the NRHP in 1982 under Criterion A for Education and African American ethnic heritage and Criterion C for architecture (Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission Staff 1982). The district and its contributing resources appear to retain their historic significance and integrity. Therefore, it is recommended that the Virginia Union University Historic District remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Maggie L. Walker Governor’s School, previously known as Maggie L. Walker High School (127-0414), is a three-story, multi-bay, school built in 1938 in the Art Deco style (Figure 5-23). The school was designed by prominent Richmond architects Carneal, Johnson & Wright and is constructed of reinforced-concrete clad in a running-bond brick with tile inlays and a limestone ramped parapet entry. It was built as a segregated school, primarily with New Deal funds from the Public Works Administration, as the first vocational high school in Richmond for African Americans. This was due to overcrowding at Armstrong High School, the only high school for African Americans in the rapidly growing city. The Governors School was listed in the NRHP in 1998 under Criterion A for education and African-American ethnic heritage and Criterion C for architecture (Sadler and Witt 1998). In spite of multiple additions and general landscape changes to the property, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its NRHP-listed status. As a result, it is recommended that the Maggie L. Walker Governor’s School remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The George Washington Carver Elementary School, previously known as Carver High School and Moore Street School (127-0428), is a two-and-a-half-story, five-bay, school built in 1887 in the Italianate style (Figure 5-24). It sits on a raised basement and is constructed of coursed brick with decorative pilasters. The school was purposefully built as a public school for African American students and has seen many additions over time to accommodate growing enrollment as the population of Richmond increased throughout the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries. In 1949 the school added a large annex and changed its name from Moore Street School to George Washington Carver School, which the surrounding community took as well to become the Carver Neighborhood (Chen 2002). The George Washington Carver Elementary School was determined eligible for listing in the NRHP by the DHR in 1993 under Criterion C for architecture. This resource should also be considered potentially eligible under Criterion A for education and African American ethnic heritage. In spite of multiple additions and general landscape changes to the property, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. As a result, it is recommended that the George Washington Carver Elementary School remains eligible for the NRHP.

NORTHEAST ELEVATION

The Carver Residential Historic District (127-0822) is a working class neighborhood adjacent to Jackson Ward (127-0237), featuring 320 contributing resource composed of mainly single-family, frame dwellings constructed during the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries in a vernacular form with Greek Revival, Italianate, and Queen Anne elements (Figure 5-25). Forty-three of the resources are also listed in the Jackson Ward National Historic Landmark District. The growth of this neighborhood was due mainly to industrialization of the southwestern corner of the district around 1880 which drew in a racially diverse, working class community. By about 1920 the community had shifted to a predominantly African American community due to redlining and housing segregation. The Carver Residential Historic District was listed in the NRHP in 2002 under Criterion C for architecture. It should also be considered eligible under Criterion A for African-American ethnic heritage (Chen 2002). The district and its contributing resources appear to retain their historic significance and integrity. Therefore, it is recommended that the Carver Residential Historic District remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Barton Heights Cemeteries (127-5679) is a 12-acre parcel that contains six contiguous, but originally separate, cemeteries laid out in a grid pattern with hundreds of markers of differing materials, sizes, and styles (Figure 5-26). The cemeteries were established between about 1815 and 1865 and are significant because they represent early efforts by the African-American population in Richmond to establish their own cemeteries and offer death benefits through the creation of burial societies. The cemeteries contain the internments of many prominent African American Richmonders and burials continued until the 1970s. The Barton Heights Cemeteries was listed in the NRHP in 2002 under Criterion A for African American ethnic heritage and under Criterion B for the significant individuals interred there. The cemetery also considered eligible under Criteria Consideration D for cemeteries (Lester 2000). Though the cemeteries were abandoned for a period of time and is somewhat in need of repair, it still retains its historic significance and integrity. Therefore, it is recommended that the Barton Heights Cemeteries remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Todd Lofts, previously known as the E.M. Todd Company and Todd’s Ham Building (127-5978), is a five-story, multi-bay, commercial building constructed in 1892 (Figure 5-27). The resource is rectangular in form and constructed of coursed brick with rusticated stone details on the primary elevation. Originally built as the Richmond Brewery, the E.M. Todd Company bought the building in 1919 and expanded it into a meat production facility. Until 1998 this resource housed the county’s oldest meat processing plant in continuous business. The Todd Lofts was listed in the NRHP in 2002 under Criterion A for industry (Sadler et al 2002). Though the resource has been converted into loft apartments, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. As a result it is recommended that Todd Lofts remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Southern Stove Lofts, previously known as Southern Stove Works and J.P. Taylor Leaf Tobacco (127-6145), is an industrial complex of four brick buildings and a water tower that were all constructed in the early-twentieth century during the time of rapid industrialization in Richmond (Figure 5-28). Southern Stove Works was one of the two largest and most important stove-making plants in Richmond and the South. Southern Stove Works was listed in the NRHP in 2005 under Criterion A for industry and Criterion C for architecture (Guna 2005). Though the resource has been converted into loft apartments, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. As a result, it is recommended that Southern Stove Lofts remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

RESULTS

The Cookie Factory Lofts, previously known as Southern Biscuit Company, Interbake Foods, and Famous Foods of Virginia (127-6165), is a six-story, multi-bay, industrial building with a water tower on the roof that was constructed in 1927 with Colonial Revival attributes (Figure 5-29). It sits on a two-story rusticated block foundation and is constructed of reinforced concrete covered in stucco. The Southern Biscuit Company was founded in 1899 and moved in 1927 to the present building due to the company's expanding operation until it was relocated in 2006. The company was known for making cookies and crackers and in the 1930s became the first company to produce Girl Scout Cookies. The Cookie Factory Lofts was listed in the NRHP in 2012 under Criterion A for industry and commerce and under Criterion C for architecture (Green 2012). Though the resource has been converted into loft apartments, the primary core of the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. Therefore, it is recommended that Cookie Factory Lofts remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Hebrew Cemetery, previously known as the Hebrew Burying Ground (127-6166), is a 8.4-acre cemetery with about 2,600 interments that was established in 1816 and is still in active use today (Figure 5-30). The Hebrew Cemetery is the oldest active Jewish cemetery in continuous use in the South as well as being the oldest cemetery in continuous use in Richmond. The Hebrew Cemetery is representative of the block and grid cemetery pattern and contains markers that range from early, simple stones that represent the Judaic tradition of equality in death to the later, decorative and elaborate Victorian gravestones that represent the Jewish community's engagement in the popular culture of the mid-to-late-nineteenth century. Though there are not any mausoleums or statues, which is in keeping with traditional Jewish burial rites and much of the iconography remains Jewish, there are also many forms and symbols throughout the cemetery that are common to most American cemeteries during the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries. The Hebrew Cemetery was listed in the NRHP in 2006 under Criterion A for Jewish history in Richmond and Criterion C for artistic craftsmanship. The cemetery is considered eligible under Criteria Considerations A for religious institution and D for cemeteries (Peters and Peters 2006). This cemetery is in excellent condition and has maintained a high level of integrity and historical significance. For these reasons it is recommended that the Hebrew Cemetery remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

Dovetail Construction, previously known as the Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Car Barn (127-6171), is a one-story, multi-bay, T-shaped, railway car barn constructed in 1907 (Figure 5-31). Though the building is currently being used as office space, it previously served as a maintenance and service facility for train cars for the independent Richmond and Chesapeake Bay electric railway that ran between Richmond and Ashland from 1907 to 1938. The car barn is one of only two surviving structures from that railway and so the resource was listed in the NRHP in 2006 under Criterion A for technology and transportation and Criterion C for industrial architecture (Chen 2006). Though the resource has been renovated into office space, the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. As a result, it is recommended that the Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Car Barn remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

The Movieland Bowtie Cinema, previously known as the Richmond Locomotive & Machine Works, the American Locomotive Company, and Richmond Works (127-6188), is an industrial complex with two buildings, the brass foundry and the iron foundry, that are both steel framed resources with masonry walls (Figure 5-32). The Richmond Locomotive & Machine Works, opened in 1887 and expanded from Tredegar Iron Works, was a nationally significant manufacturer of steam locomotive engines. It merged with the American Locomotive Company to become the Richmond Works, which continued to manufacture locomotives until 2006. The resource was listed in the NRHP in 2007 under Criterion A for industrial history and under Criterion C for architecture (Green 2007). Though the resource has been converted into a movie theater, the building has retained its historic integrity and the current condition does not warrant a change to its eligibility status. As a result, it is recommended that the Movieland Bowtie Cinema remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

RESULTS

The Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730) is a 47-acre industrial and commercial district in Richmond featuring 16 contributing resources built between 1913-1958 (Figure 5-33). The district represents the twentieth-century growth of Richmond in the northwest corner of the city near the railroad and has historically housed some of the city's more prominent businesses such as Export Leaf Tobacco, J.P. Taylor Co., Miller & Rhoads, and the A.H. Robins Company. The Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District was listed in the NRHP in 2014 under Criterion A for industry and commerce as well as Criterion C for its exemplarity early-to-mid twentieth century industrial architecture (Eddy and Sadler 2014). The buildings usages have changed multiple times, but the district has maintained a high level of architectural integrity and historical significance. Therefore, it is recommended that the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District remains eligible for, and listed in, the NRHP.

5.2.2 Previously Determined Not Eligible

Fourteen of the 55 previously recorded resources within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments were previously determined not eligible by DHR staff. Because they received an eligibility determination more than five years ago, they were revisited during the current survey. These resources consist of one historic district (127-0818), three resources that are no longer extant (043-5352, 127-6052, 127-6053), and 10 commercial buildings that date to the mid-twentieth century (127-6262, 127-6657, 127-6658, 127-6659, 127-6660, 127-6730-0003, 127-6730-0004, 127-6730-0005, 127-6730-0006, and 127-6730-0016). It does not appear that these resources have gained architectural significance or present an increased level of historic integrity. It is recommended that these 14 resources remain not eligible for the NRHP.

5.2.3 Previously Not Evaluated

Of the 55 previously recorded resources, 26 had not received a formal eligibility determination from the DHR at the time of the survey. These resources consist of one historic district (127-6075), one single-family dwelling dating to about 1900 (127-5716), and 17 resources that are no longer extant (127-0343-0520, 127-0770, 127-0818-0005, 127-0818-0006, 127-0818-0007, 127-0818-0009, 127-0818-0010, 127-0818-0011, 127-0818-0013, 127-0818-0014, 127-0818-0016, 127-0818-0018, 127-0818-0034, 127-0818-0037, 127-0818-0038, 127-6052, and 127-6053). The remaining resource (n=6) are associated with either the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343) or the Newtowne Historic District (127-0818) and consist of single-family dwellings dating to the early-to-mid twentieth century and built in styles and forms vernacular to the area and era in which they were constructed. They have no outstanding architectural merit and are not known to be the work of a master. For these reasons, though they are contributing resources to their respective historic districts, they are recommended not individually eligible for listing in the NRHP under Criterion C. They have no known association with a significant event or person and are not associated with any broad patterns in history. Therefore, they are recommended not eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A and B. As architectural resource, these properties were not evaluated under Criterion D. In sum, Dovetail recommends that these resources are not individually eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A-C.

5.3 NEWLY RECORDED RESOURCES

The DC2RVA Project Team documented 218 newly recorded resources (Table 5-2; Figures 5-34 through 5-47). Of those 218 resources, one is recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP. Table 5-2 lists all 218 newly recorded resources, along with Dovetail's eligibility determination.

5.3.1 Newly Recorded Resources Recommended Potentially Eligible

Of the 218 newly recorded resources, one is recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP.

The building at 2260 Dabney Road (043-5636) that is currently named Integrated Power Sources of VA is a two-story, two-bay, commercial building constructed in 1940 (Figure 5-49). The resource was originally built as an engine painting facility for the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad and was used for that purpose until 1991. Railroad siding lead train engines from the main terminal into the building where they would be serviced and painted. Evidence of this siding is still visible in the parking lot and though the building. This building is one of the only resources still extant from the original Bryan Park facility at the Acca Locomotive Terminal, which has been in service since 1890 (Plant et al. 2003). Though almost all the buildings have been replaced, the railroad yard is still in service and is the largest CSX terminal in Virginia, today known as the Acca Yard (Figure 5-48).

As a surviving resource of the original Bryan Park facility at the Acca Locomotive terminal, this resource is representative of the importance of the growth of the railroad in Richmond throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries that contributed greatly to the industrial and manufacturing development that has defined Richmond's economy (Stanford 1975). As such, it is recommended that Integrated Power Sources of VA at 2260 Dabney Road (043-5636) is potentially eligible under Criterion A for transportation. The resource has no outstanding architectural elements and is not the work of a master. Therefore, the resource is recommended not eligible for the NRHP under Criterion C. It has no known association with a significant event or person; consequently, it is recommended not eligible for the NRHP under Criterion B. As an architectural resource, this property was not evaluated under Criterion D.

For its association with the RF&P Railroad (076-0301), this resource should also be considered a contributing resource to the RF&P Railroad (076-0301).

5.3.2 Newly Recorded Resources Recommended Not Eligible

Of the newly recorded resources the DC2RVA Project Team documented, 216 are recommended not individually eligible for the NRHP (Table 5-2; Figures 5-34 through 5-47). One resource, the Warehouse at 2728 Hermitage Road (127-6840), was not accessible during the time of survey; therefore, an eligibility recommendation could not be made. Of the remaining 216 resources, a majority (n=107, or 49 percent) are commercial and industrial buildings built between 1900 and 1968 with the bulk of them dating to the mid-twentieth century. These resources represent popular commercial and industrial forms including warehouses, Quonset huts, and commercial strips.

Seventy nine of these 216 newly recorded resources consist of single-family dwellings and townhouses dating from 1935–1968. An additional eight single-family dwellings date to about 1900. Most of these dwellings are examples of styles and forms that were popular during the second and third quarters of the twentieth century, such as Craftsman, Ranch, and Minimal Traditional styles and the bungalow form; however, on a whole, they represent a building type that is vernacular throughout the region.

The remaining newly recorded resources (n=22, or 10 percent), consist of a wide variety of buildings, including an apartment complex, churches, auto service stations, and civic buildings that all date to the mid-twentieth century and represent an assortment of architectural styles common in urban settings.

None of these remaining 216 newly recorded resources have outstanding architectural merit and are not known to be the work of a master. For these reasons, they are recommended not eligible for individual listing in the NRHP under Criterion C. They have no known association with a significant event or person and are not associated with any broad patterns in history. Therefore, they are recommended not eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A and B. As architectural resources, these properties were not evaluated under Criterion D. In sum, these 216 newly recorded resources are recommended not individually eligible for the NRHP under Criteria A-C.

6 SUMMARY AND RECOMMENDATIONS

The DC2RVA Project Team conducted a reconnaissance-level architectural survey of the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA corridor. The DC2RVA project is being completed under the auspices of the FRA in conjunction with the DRPT. Because of FRA's involvement, the undertaking is required to comply with the NEPA and Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, as amended. The Project is being completed as DHR File Review #2014-0666.

In total, the DC2RVA Project Team surveyed 273 historic architectural resources within the architectural APE within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments (Table 6-1). A majority (n=257, or 94 percent) of these resources have no known association with a known historic trend or specific event or a notable person. Furthermore, they have no outstanding architectural merit and are not known to be the work of a master. As such it is recommended that 256 of the 273 resources documented during the current survey are recommended not eligible for individual listing on the NRHP.

Fifteen resources were previously determined potentially eligible/eligible for, or listed in, the NRHP (The Science Museum of Virginia, 127-0226; Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District, 127-0343; Richmond Nursing Home, 127-0353; Virginia Union University Historic District, 127-0354; Governor's School, 127-0414; George W. Carver Elementary School, 127-0428; Carver Residential Historic District, 127-0822; Barton Heights Cemetery, 127-5679; Todd Lofts, 127-5978; Southern Stove Works, 127-6145; Cookie Factory Lofts, 127-6165; Hebrew Cemetery, 127-6166; Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Barn, 127-6171; Movieland Bowtie Cinema, 127-6188; and Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District, 127-6730). Because these resources have not been greatly altered and continue to possess the same levels of integrity that made them eligible for the NRHP, the DC2RVA Project Team recommends that they should retain their previous eligibility status.

As a result of the current survey, one newly identified resource, Integrated Power Sources of VA (043-5636), is recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP under Criterion A.

One resource, the Warehouse at 2728 Hermitage Road (127-6840), was not accessible during the time of survey; therefore, an eligibility recommendation could not be made.

In addition to their individual eligibility recommendation, many resources within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments are located within the boundaries of the four eligible historic districts: The Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), the Carver Residential Historic District (127-0822), and the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730). As a result, it is recommended that four of the five previously recorded properties (127-0343-0516, 127-0343-0517, 127-0343-0518, and 127-0343-0519) are contributing resources to the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District

SUMMARY AND RECOMMENDATIONS

(127-0343), one newly recorded property (127-0354-0007) is a contributing resource to the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), one previously recorded property (127-0428) is a contributing resource to the Carver Residential Historic District (127-0822), and five previously recorded properties (127-6730-0003, 127-6730-0004, 127-6730-0005, 127-6730-0006, and 127-6730-0016) are contributing resources to the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730).

The DC2RVA Team will discuss the Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac Railroad (RF&P) Historic District (500-0001) in a subsequent report (Chase 2016); however, there are two newly recorded resources [Integrated Power Sources of VA (043-5636) and the Acca Transportation Yard (046-5843)], within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments of the DC2RVA corridor that should be considered contributing elements to the RF&P.

RE: Resource Eligibility/ Segment 15 (Greendale to SAY/WAY), Segment 16 (SAY/WAY to AM Jct), and Segment 20 (Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye)
Southeast High Speed Rail Project, Washington, D.C. to Richmond Segment
DHR #2014-0666

Dear Marc,

The Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) and the Virginia Department of Rail and Public Transportation (DRPT) are continuing environmental studies associated with the Tier II Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for the Washington, D.C. to Richmond segment of the Southeast High Speed Rail (DC2RVA) corridor (Project). The limits of the Project extend from Control Point RO (MP CFP-110) in Arlington south to the CSX Transportation ("CSXT") A-Line/CSXT-S-Line junction at MP A-11 in Centralia, Virginia (Chesterfield County), a distance of approximately 123 miles.

This project is receiving federal funding through the FRA, requires permits issued by federal agencies such as the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and will traverse federal land including parcels owned by the U.S. Marine Corps and the National Park Service, among others. Due to the involvement of these and several other federal entities, the undertaking requires compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA), as amended. The FRA sent your office a project Initiation letter on December 11, 2014, formally commencing the Section 106 process, and the project's Area of Potential Effects (APE) was approved by the State Historic Preservation Officer (SHPO) on February 2, 2015, as required by 36 CFR 800.4(a)(1).

We are writing today to coordinate architectural identification studies within Segment 15/Greendale to SAY/WAY (GNSA), Segment 16/SAY/WAY to AM Jct (SAAM), and Segment 20/Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye (BBHW) of the larger Project initiative. Segment 15/GNSA includes the span between Hungary Road in Henrico County on the north and the A-line/S-line split just north of Boulevard in Richmond. Segment 16/SAAM includes the area from just north of Boulevard to I-95/I-64 split in Richmond. Segment 20/BBHW is located at the termination of Segment 16 and runs in both a north and south direction, going north to Dill Road and going south to Leigh Street in downtown Richmond.

Enclosed please find two hard copies and one electronic copy of the report entitled Architectural Reconnaissance Survey for the Washington, D.C. to Richmond, Virginia High Speed Rail Project, Greendale to SAY/WAY (GNSA), SAY/WAY to AM Jct (SAAM) and Buckingham Branch/Hospital Wye (BBHW) Segments, Henrico County and City of Richmond. The report was authored by Caitlin C. Sylvester and Heather D. Staton with Dovetail Cultural Resource Group (Dovetail), a member of the DC2RVA Project Team. The report meets all standards set forth in both the Secretary of Interior's Standards and Guidelines (1983) and the Virginia Department of Historic Resource's (DHR) Guidelines for Preparing Identification and Evaluation Reports (2011).

In total, the DC2RVA Project Team surveyed 273 architectural resources within the architectural APE within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments (see attached Table for a full roster of these resources). Fifteen resources were previously determined potentially eligible/eligible for, or listed in, the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP). Because these resources have not been greatly altered and continue to possess the same levels of integrity that made them eligible for the NRHP, the DC2RVA Project Team recommends that they should retain their previous eligibility status: The Science Museum of Virginia, 127-0226; Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District, 127-0343; Richmond Nursing Home, 127-0353; Virginia Union University Historic District, 127-0354; Governor's School, 127-0414; George W. Carver Elementary School, 127-0428 (also a contributing element to the Carver Residential Historic District); Carver Residential Historic District, 127-0822; Barton Heights Cemetery, 127-5679; Todd Lofts, 127-5978; Southern Stove Works, 127-6145; Cookie Factory Lofts, 127-6165; Hebrew Cemetery, 127-6166; Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Barn, 127-6171; Movieland Bowtie Cinema, 127-6188; and Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District, 127-6730.

As a result of the current survey, one newly identified resource, INtegrated Power Sources of VA (043-5636), is recommended potentially eligible for the NRHP under Criterion A. One resource was inaccessible during the current study (127-6840), and it will be surveyed once access is granted.

The remaining 256 resources documented during the current survey are recommended not eligible for individual listing on the NRHP. However, several resources that are recommended not individually eligible within the GNSA, SAAM, and BBHW segments are located within the boundaries of four eligible historic districts: the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730), and the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad (500-0001). As a result, it is recommended that four properties (127-0343-0516, 127-0343-0517, 127-0343-0518, and 127-0343-0519) are contributing resources to the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), one property (127-0354-0007) is a contributing resource to the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), five properties (127-6730-0003, 127-6730-0004, 127-6730-0005, 127-6730-0006, and 127-6730-0016) are contributing resources to the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730), and one property (043-5843) is contributing to the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad (500-0001).

We invite your agency to concur with these recommendations within 30 days of receipt of this letter. If you have questions about historic property studies for this project, please do not hesitate to contact me or Heather Staton at (540) 899-9170 or via email at kbarile@dovetailcrg.com/hstaton@dovetailcrg.com.

Kerri S. Barile, Ph.D.

The Virginia SHPO concurs that the following resources continue to be listed on the NRHP, as recorded during the DC2RVA/Segments 15, 16, and 20 study (DHR #2014-0666):

- 127-0226 Science Museum of Virginia, 2500 Broad Street, West (Criteria A & C)
- 127-0343 Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (Criteria A & C)
- 127-0353 Richmond Nursing Home, 210 Hospital Street (Criterion C)
- 127-0354 Virginia Union University Historic District, 1500 North Lombardy Street (Criteria A & C)
- 127-0414 Governor's School, 1000 North Lombardy Street (Criteria A & C)
- 127-0822 Carver Residential Historic District (Criterion C)
- 127-5679 Barton Heights Cemetery, 1600 Lamb Avenue (Criteria A & B; Criteria Consideration D)
- 127-5978 Todd Lofts, 1128 Hermitage Road (Criterion A)
- 127-6145 Southern Stove Works, 1215 Hermitage Road (Criteria A & C)
- 127-6165 Cookie Factory Lofts, 900 Terminal Place (Criteria A & C)
- 127-6166 Hebrew Cemetery, 320 Hospital Street (Criteria A & C)
- 127-6171 Dovetail Construction, 1620 Brook Road (Criteria A & C)
- 127-6188 Movieland Bowtie Cinema, 1331 North Boulevard (Criteria A & C)
- 127-6730 Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (Criteria A & C)

They also concur that the following resource remains eligible for the NRHP and is also a contributing element to the Carver Residential Historic District:

- 127-0428 George W. Carver Elementary School, 1110 West Leigh Streets (Criterion C)

They further concur that the following resource is potentially eligible for the NRHP:

- 043-5636 INtegrated Power Sources of VA, 2260 Dabney Road (Criterion A)

They concur that the following resources are eligible for the NRHP as contributing elements to the Chestnut Hill/ Plateau Historic District (127-0343), but are not individually eligible for listing under Criteria A–C as architectural resources:

- 127-0343-0516 House, 1802 5th Avenue
- 127-0343-0517 House, 1716 5th Avenue
- 127-0343-0518 House, 1708 5th Avenue
- 127-0343-0519 House, 1706 5th Avenue

They also concur that the following resource is eligible for the NRHP as contributing element to the Virginia Union University Historic District (127-0354), but it is not individually eligible for listing under Criteria A–C as architectural resources:

127-0354-0007 Power Plant and Maintenance Building, School Road

They concur that the following resources are eligible for the NRHP as contributing elements to the Hermitage Road Warehouse Historic District (127-6730), but are not individually eligible for listing under Criteria A–C as architectural resources:

127-6730-0003 Warehouse, 1650 Overbrook Road
127-6730-0004 Richmond SPCA, 1615 Rhoadmiller Street
127-6730-0005 Warehouse, 1613 Rhoadmiller Street
127-6730-0006 Warehouse, 1611 Rhoadmiller Street
127-6730-0016 Salvation Army, 2601 Hermitage Road

They also concur that the following resource is eligible for the NRHP as a contributing element to the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad (500-0001), but is not individually eligible for listing under Criteria A–C as an architectural resource:

043-5843 Acca Transportation Yard, Tomlynn Street

The following resource was inaccessible during the current study, and the DHR concurs that a revisit is required to assess eligibility:

127-6840 Warehouse, 2728 Hermitage Road

Lastly, they concur that the following resources are not eligible for the NRHP as individual resources under Criteria A–C and they do not contribute to the eligibility of a historic district:

- Please note the following comments
- V-CRIS forms were provided for 043-5632, 127-6136-0245 and 127-6136-0295 but not included on the commencement list. We believe these properties not to be eligible for the NRHP
 - The photos for 127-6052 and 127-6053 are of the same property.
 - 127-6811: The date on the V-CRIS form ~~is~~ was hand changed from 1947 to 1900 but remains 1947 in the report tables
 - 127-6846: The date on the V-CRIS form was hand changed from 1945 to 1963 but remains 1945 in the report tables
